Opinion:

I think Ubuntu with GNOME is a great choice because it feels very stable and beginner-friendly to me. The GNOME desktop looks clean and simple, so I find it easy to learn, even for people who are coming from Windows or Mac. From what I've learned, Ubuntu has a huge community, which makes it easy to find help, tutorials, and answers online whenever they're needed. Many people also mention that a lot of software works well on Ubuntu, and most programs install without extra steps. Overall, based on my research, Ubuntu seems to be reliable, easy to use, and a strong long-term option for school, work, and everyday tasks.
